COFFEE DEALERS TOLD NOT TO TRADE WITH GERMAN FIRMS

NEW YORK, June 12.—In correspondence made public today by William C. Redfield and John O'Donoghue's Sons, coffee dealers, the secretary of commerce advises the firm not to continue commercial relations with business interests in Central and South America and the United States which "are presumably controlled by subjects of Germany or who are subjects of her allies," pending action by Congress on the so-called trading with the enemy act.

The coffee firm had informed the secretary of a shipment received from a certain house with a German name in Venezuela for sale here on a commission basis. The secretary was asked whether or not it would be an act of disloyalty if the proceeds were paid to the Venezuelan firm.

U-BOAT, DISABLED BY GUN SHOTS, TOWED INTO GADIZ.

CADIZ, Spain, June 12.—A Spanish torpedo boat, No. 6, this morning discovered the German submarine U-52 disabled from gun shots which had struck her engine. The submarine was towed into Cadiz and stripped of wireless apparatus.

Repairs to the German submarine will take at least two days, but it is believed the vessel will be interned. The German commander today paid a visit to the port officials, who later returned the visit.

The submarine is of 450 tons and carries a crew of 20 men. It is equipped with two torpedo tubes.

AIRPLANE ANSWER TO SCHEMERS SAYS PEARY.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Rear Admiral Robert G. Peary told a subcommittee of the Senate military committee today that the airplane was the cheapest and quickest answer to the submarine and that if 1,000 planes were sent abroad they would do more to curb the menace than anything else that could be done.

"With the same concentration of effort as Von Tirpitz exerted to develop the submarine in Germany, I think we will have an answer to the submarine and a quick decision of the war," he declared.

Admiral Peary appeared in support of a bill to establish a department of aeronautics, with a place in the cabinet.

The general opinion among experts, he said, is that the war will be decided in the air and that soon more planes will be fighting in brigades of 500 to 1,000 fliers.

BRICK SCARCITY HOLDS UP CITY'S PAVING PROGRAM

Council, However, Plans to Pave Alleys on Pinnacle and and Complete Murphy Ave.

RACE STREET IS DELAYED

Can't Get Brick to Finish It, Connellsville Dugan Declares; State Health Commissioner is to Be Held City is Working on Sewage Disposal Plant.

Though paving brick was almost impossible to secure, council intends to try to go ahead with its improvement program, and the paving of several streets was planned last night. Mayor Martetta introduced the subject of paving Pinnacle alley, Madison avenue, and Robbins alley, so as to afford the farmers of the Mount Pleasant district a better entrance to the city. City Engineer S. M. Foust was instructed to prepare estimates for these streets, and a resolution to advertise for bids for them will be introduced at council's next meeting, two weeks from last night.

Murphy avenue, from Minor alley to Crawford avenue, is likely to be paved within a short time. J. W. Frankford of Patterson and Race appeared before council last night to complain that because of Race street being dug out for paving, the water has forced its way beneath the sidewalk, damaged his side wall, and flooded his cellar. He urged a little speed in shelling or paving the street. Councilman Dugan declared that it was impossible to get brick at this time to finish the street.

An ordinance for the paving of Seventh street, West Side, was reintroduced last night, since the previous ordinance had neglected to instruct the city clerk to post notices of the proposed improvement, and was therefore not valid.

The opening of Jefferson, formerly Tenth street, was brought up once more, but no definite action taken.

Councilman Dugan reported that he had inspected the Connellsville municipal building and that while it was not exactly what was needed here, he had gotten some ideas from it.

The new system of street repairing was discussed at some length. According to this plan, a broken street will be repaired by the city, and the bill sent to the water or gas company, or whichever company lays up the street. "If there's any way of collecting such a bill," said Mr. Dugan, "we'll collect. If not, and they refuse to pay, why, we won't let them dig up any more streets until they do pay it."

All property owners notified some time ago to lay sidewalks who did not do so will be notified to lay them at once. Mayor Martetta and Mr. Dugan will take a trip in an automobile and make notes of every unsidewalked street in order to make the list complete. Those who do not comply with council's request will have their sidewalks laid by the city and the bill sent to them. The men who have been declaring that they won't lay sidewalks will be made examples of, according to Mr. Dugan.

Mr. Pryce declared that a freepipe on Arch street between Cedar and Gibson avenues was a necessity. Should the Young brewery or the Baltimore & Ohio shops get adre, he said, the nearest plug would be at Arch and Cedar and the hose could not be stretched far enough to reach either of these buildings. No action was taken.

A letter from John Dugan, Jr., and H. G. May, called attention to the award of $500 to Mrs. Barbara Blasey of North Eighth street, West Side. The city was to make right the property damage suffered by the Blaseys, according to the verdict. Materials have been hauled to the grounds and left there. It is over a year ago and the city has yet to make the repairs. Councilman Dugan declared that he would do nothing until he got an agreement with the Blaseys as to just what he was to do.

A letter from the department of health at Harrisburg, asking what Connellsville was doing toward providing a sewage disposal plant, was read. City Clerk Bixler was directed to answer it by saying "Big improvement contemplated. Ground under option at present time. Only place that will do and we can't get it yet."

All the councilmen were present with the exception of Mr. Gwyn.

TEAMS OF 10 MEN TO COVER CITY IN CAMPAIGN TO RAISE BIG FUND FOR THE RED CROSS

At a meeting of the finance committee of the Red Cross in the Red Cross Campaign headquarters on the second floor of the Citizens' National Bank building last evening, an executive committee for the campaign was chosen and the general plans discussed. The members of the executive committee are: J. E. Angle, S. R. Goldsmith, Robert Norris, J. A. McCreary, J. L. Evans, Harry Dunn, and John Dugan, Jr.

This body will have general supervision over all matters relative to the campaign. J. L. Schick and G. W. Campbell were elected cashiers.

There will be 10 teams of 10 men each to do the canvassing during Red Cross campaign week. All the captains were not chosen last evening, and none of the members were selected. These names, however, be announced within a few days.

The Red Cross campaign headquarters will be fitted up with both telephones and several large tables will be placed in the room. Mr. Schick will be in the office all of the time, and all printed matter relative to the conducting of the campaign will be kept on file there for the use of the captains of the teams and others.

The Red Cross campaign wants subscriptions from everybody, rich, well-to-do, poor. The Red Cross fund to be asked to contribute, must be a national undertaking in the most thorough sense of the word, according to leaders of the organization.

Single Men Wanted At Once to Bring Regularity to War Strength.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The War Department called today for 70,000 additional recruits in order to fill the regular army to war strength before June 30.

"The cavalry, engineers, coast artillery, signal corps, and quartermasters corps of the regular army have already been brought to war strength," a statement issued today says.

"Fifteen thousand recruits are needed at once to complete the new regiments of infantry and field artillery. Twenty-five thousand additional recruits are desired at the earliest practicable date to fill vacancies in order that the war strength of 200,000 men may be maintained."

"Facilities are in readiness for placing these 70,000 men under proper training. Any delay in obtaining this number will necessarily cause the loss of invaluable time."

"It is the earnest desire of the War Department that 70,000 single men between 18 and 40 who have no dependents and who are not engaged in professions, business, or trades, vitally necessary to the conduct of life, be enlisted before June 30, 1917."

STEAMER PETROLITE AGAIN ATTACKED BY SUBMARINE, IS SUNK

Steamer That Was Shelled by Austrian Submersible Two Years Ago Sent Down.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The American steamer Petrolite has been sunk by a German submarine, consular reports which brought the news of the disaster said. A boat with 18 men, the first mate and chief engineer, had been landed and two boats were missing. The time and place of the attack were not given.

The Petrolite, a tank steamer, first figured in the news two years ago, by an attack on her by an Austrian submarine, threatening a sever diplomatic relations between the Vienna government and the United States. The ship was shelled by the submarine, several men wounded, a crew sent aboard the vessel, and a large quantity of supplies removed. She was then allowed to proceed.

The incident was the subject of a series of notes between the United States and the Austrian government.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The Petrolite, a vessel of 3,700 tons, owned by the Standard Oil Company of New York, left here April 30 for Savona, and Leghorn, Italy. KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—An extensive plot engineered by German agents and directed not only against a number of individuals but also against the government is believed by Federal agents to have been uncovered as the result of their investigation of the Springfield abduction plot. KELL LONG PASSES AWAY AT WEST SIDE HOME AT AGE OF 70

One of City's Foremost Citizens Dies at 11th This Afternoon After Long Illness.

Following an illness of several weeks Kell Long, one of the most prominent residents of Connellsville, died this afternoon about 1:15 o'clock at his home in South First street, West Side, aged 70 years. Mr. Long had been failing in health for some time past and following his usual custom for some several years past, accompanied by Mrs. Long and Mrs. Leroy Guilford, a daughter, he spent the winter in St. Petersburg, Florida. They arrived home about April 1. Mr. Long suffered a slight attack of pneumonia and since then he gradually grew weaker. His death was not unexpected.

In the death of Mr. Long Connellsville has lost one of its most influential citizens. He was known and respected by practically the entire community. He had lived retired since disposing of the milling business in First street West Side some years ago.

Mr. Long was born in Franklin township on August 16, 1847. He was the son of James M. and Sarah (Kell) Long, natives of Pennsylvania and descendants respectively of early English and Irish settlers of the state. He received his education in the public schools of Franklin township and spent the years of his youth and early manhood on his father's farm. In 1873 he went to Burlington, Iowa, where he was employed for one year as a clerk with S. P. Pond & Company, wholesale produce dealers.

Returning in December, 1874, to New Haven, now the West Side, he became established in the milling business. He served several terms as a member of the school board and town council of New Haven. He was twice married; in 1873 to Lamora Patterson of Perry township. His second wife was Elizabeth, daughter of James Curry, of Dunbar township.

Mr. Long was one of the original stockholders and later directors of the Second National bank, and of the Electric Light company of Connellsville. For many years he was a stockholder and director of the old Youghiogheny Bridge company. He was also a stockholder in the old Keystone Courier, and was one of the last two surviving members of the Keystone Courier board, and the last Youghiogheny Courier stockholder.

In addition to his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Long, deceased, is survived by four children: James C. Long, Walter of the United Nations bank, West Side; Mrs. Harry C. Norris, Ralph Kell Long, and Mrs. Leroy Guilford, at home. Mr. Long was connected with the United Presbyterian church virtually all his life.

LIBERTY BOND SALE CLOSING NOON FRIDAY; $300,000 SOLD HERE

Combined Efforts of Banks as Yet Has Not Shown the Desired Results.

Only three days remain in which to purchase bonds of the United States Liberty loan and thus help the "Great States and her allies to wage the great war of Democracy against Prussian militarism."

Connellsville banks have joined hands in an effort to subscribe the city's allotment of the bonds. All subscriptions must be deposited with the Federal reserve bank at Cleveland by Friday noon which means that there must be bustling in Connellsville Wednesday and Thursday. Despite the big sales drive bonds were selling slowly and not over $300,000 had been subscribed up to noon today.

"Liberty bonds have the security of the government back of them and they pay a higher rate of interest than ordinary investments," said one local business man today, "but even if they were not such an absolutely safe investment it would be the duty of every person who is able to do so to buy one or more, thus assist the government in carrying on the war."

MRS. CLAIR ACQUITTED

Liquor Selling Charge Not Sustained; Admits Keeping Buncdy House.

Mrs. Juliana Clair of Connellsville was found not guilty yesterday of selling liquor without license after she had signed a plea of guilty to an indictment charging that she kept a disorderly house. The case was tried before Judge R. W. Irwin of Washington county, who is assisting the Fayette county judges this week.

The prosecution was made by Chief R. Rottler of Connellsville. George Yunk testified that he had purchased whiskey and beer from Mrs. Clair. Frances Kimmel also testified that Mrs. Clair sold wine and beer, declaring that she kept intoxicants in her home all the time but only for a barber who is her common law husband.

DERENCIN WANTS TO QUIT GARBAGE COLLECTION JOB

Is Steadily Losing Money, Good Name and Friends Through It, He Says.

OLD PROBLEM UP AGAIN

What to Do About Garbage Collection and Disposal is Still as Perplexing as Ever to Connellsville; Boost in Rates Cuts Off 100 Consumers.

Mr. Derencin, who has the contract for the collection of garbage, is ready to quit as soon as the city finds some way to take hold of the collection, according to his statement to council last night, and the old garbage question has become serious once more. Mr. Derencin said he has been losing money, $500, in fact, since he took over the business; and that he has not only lost money, but friends, and his good name.

His decision to quit was brought about mainly by what he termed unjustifiable antagonism in certain quarters. Mr. Derencin says he sees no reason why he should go on losing money, when he is thus antagonized, and Councilman Dugan said that he had no right to lose money for the sake of the community.

Council, it appeared last night, would like to see Mr. Derencin continue his service. "Complaints have stopped coming in," Mayor R. Martetta said at one point, "and the service seems better than ever before." The council don't know exactly what course to pursue should Mr. Derencin quit. Municipal collection, it was pointed out, is practically impossible at this time. All the councilmen agreed that Mr. Derencin was justified in making his recent raise. "I don't see how anyone could run the plant at less," Councilman M. B. Pryce said.

Mr. Derencin, however, pointed out that 100 of his 600 customers had quit because of the higher rates. With the new rates, he said, he would come out even if all his customers stuck. As it is, he will lose money just as before.

City ownership of the plant was declared impracticable, at least in a town of this size. It would likely raise the tax levy three times as much in taxes to industries of the city, which have no garbage, would be disastrous. Mr. Dugan said. It would make service to everyone necessary. There are about 3,500 families in the city, and Mr. Derencin is serving only 600. If the city tried to serve them all, it would mean a great increase in the number of vehicles employed for collection, and the building of a new plant, for the old one could not take care of the garbage. "We'd like to operate the garbage plant," Mr. Dugan said, "but how can we? We've got city alms, and a country pocketbook, a good deal like the man with an appetite for champagne and money for beer."

Mr. Derencin suggested that the city take over the plant and grant licenses for collection to three or four garbage men, allowing them to charge whatever they could get for their service. Then for each load they would haul to the incinerating plant, the city would make some charge.

Several of the councilmen declared that whoever should take the garbage business should distribute punch cards to the customers, to do away with all argument as to whether or not the garbage has been collected regularly.

Councilmen Pryce and Dugan and City Clerk Bixler were appointed a committee to go over the situation with Mr. Derencin and work out some new plan for the collection of garbage. When such a plan is worked out Mr. Derencin wants to quit. "I will then put my teams to work hauling coal and make some money. I will regain my good name, and all my friends," was the way Mr. Derencin put it. At that time he is willing to pay in cash for all the teams and equipment which he bought from council on monthly terms. He will forfeit $500 by abandoning his contract. The garbage business, he says, could not be made to pay unless there was compulsory service, and that, for obvious reasons, is impossible.

Three who own revolvers were instructed to return them to the stores from which they bought them and receive their money back. The storekeepers will be instructed not to sell boys ammunition any more. The boys who were arraigned were:

WALLACE SUCCEEDS GORDY

Permanent Certificate Committee Meets in Greensburg.

The permanent certificate committee for this section, composed of one member each from Fayette, Westmoreland, and Indiana counties, met last evening in Greensburg. U. L. Gordy, formerly of Mount Pleasant, is no longer a member of the board, having taken a position in Chambersburg. In his place was chosen S. C. Wallace, assistant superintendent of education in Westmoreland county. B. B. Smith, principal of the Connelville high school, represents Fayette, Westmoreland, and Indiana counties, and is at home, is assisted by four brothers, William Tarr of Washington, Pa.; Hamilton Tarr of Mount Pleasant; Joseph and Daniel Tarr of Reagentstown. Deceased suffered two strokes of paralysis, at close intervals, about three years ago and never fully recovered his health. He was unable to leave the house nearly all winter and for five weeks had been confined to his bed, being attended by his wife, Mrs. Tarr. Arterio sclerosis was the immediate cause of his death.

LEGISLATURE TO ADJOURN JUNE 28

Senator Crow's Resolution, Introduced Today, Fixes Definite Quitting Time.

HARRISBURG, June 12.—Following the adjournment of a conference of Senate leaders yesterday Senator W. H. Crow announced that he would report a resolution providing for the sine die adjournment of the legislature June 28. The meeting at which this was agreed upon was attended by Senators Crow, W. C. Spruiell, James P. McNichol, E. T. Vero and T. Larry Byrne. The Senate will pass the resolution and the House will accept the date.

Action on the governor's appointment can now be looked for. It was denied that the conference reached any conclusion about the confirmation, but there is reason for the belief that practically every nominee will be confirmed.

Senator W. C. Spruiell introduced a bill appropriating $100,000 to the treasurers of the cities, townships and boroughs where there is an organized firemen's relief association. Recently the governor vetoed the Spruiell bill, giving certain revenues from insurance companies to the relief associations.

Senator Marshall Phillips of Venango has presented legislation providing for the appointment by the governor of a state superintendent of civilian rifle clubs. The official would receive a salary of $2,000 a year. His duties would be to visit every civilian rifle range in the state. An appropriation of $25,000 is provided. After paying the salary of the superintendent and his traveling expenses, the private ranges of the state would receive $16,000 for maintenance.

The general appropriation bill to meet the ordinary expenses of the state government for the next two years was reported from the House appropriation committee last night. The amount is $26,736,337.15. This is $4,500,000 more than was provided by the legislature two years ago and nearly $1,700,000 more than the total of the bill when it was reported first from committee last month.

The bill already has had two readings in the House and will pass finally tomorrow when it will go to the Senate for its final ordeal.

WITNESS FINED

Prisoner Released; Man Who Had Him Arrested Assessed $150.

When William E. Neal, colored barber, asked Patrolman Turner to arrest James Johnson, also colored, who he said was annoying him, yesterday afternoon, he had no idea that the net would draw a fine upon himself, but that is exactly what happened this morning.

Johnson, when arraigned before the mayor, told a straight story, and his honor, suspecting that the police might have arrested the wrong man, ordered Neal to come over as a witness. Neal told nothing but a straight story. He said he had seen Turner and asked him to arrest Johnson at Brimstone Corner at 9 o'clock last night, while as a matter of fact, the arrest was made in front of the St. James Hotel shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Johnson denied ever having seen Neal home, and Mayor Marietta said it seemed to him that Neal had caused a lot of trouble by requesting this arrest, and fined him $150. Johnson, to add to the sorrow of Neal, was discharged.

ALEX P. TARR WAS FIRST POLICEMAN IN OLD NEW HAVEN

Aged West Side Man, Who Died Yesterday, Served in Many Capacities During His Life.

Alexander P. Tarr, who died yesterday afternoon at his home in North Seventh street, West Side, was the first policeman of New Haven, now the West Side, serving for a number of years, and also helped to organize the first New Haven fire company. He served in the capacity of constable, health officer, trustee officer, janitor of the Union National bank and janitor of the Connelville high school. He was born in Westmoreland county, near Scottdale, November 14, 1816, a son of the late Alexander and Louisa Tarr. He spent his boyhood days at Reagentstown. He was a veteran of the Civil War, enlisting in Company D, 28th Pennsylvania Volunteers, serving three years and eight months. He was honorably discharged at the close of the war September 13, 1871. He was married in Uniontown to Miss Caroline Thornhill, daughter of the late George H. Thornhill and Mrs. Ann Thornhill. They came to the West Side, then New Haven, to reside. Mrs. Tarr died 11 years ago last April.

Having been a resident of the West Side for about 46 years, Mr. Tarr was known and respected by virtually every man, woman and child. He was a member of the William McKinley Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and in addition to his two children, Mrs. Louisa Jamieson and Donald Tarr, he is at home, is assisted by four brothers, William Tarr of Washington, Pa.; Hamilton Tarr of Mount Pleasant; Joseph and Daniel Tarr of Reagentstown. Deceased suffered two strokes of paralysis, at close intervals, about three years ago and never fully recovered his health. He was unable to leave the house nearly all winter and for five weeks had been confined to his bed, being attended by his wife, Mrs. Tarr. Arterio sclerosis was the immediate cause of his death.

Funeral tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from the family residence with interment in Hill Grove cemetery.

CLASS OF 1917 AT STATE COLLEGE GIVES 142 TO UNCLE SAM

Sad Note in Commencement Exercises Because of Absence of Patriotic Graduates.

There was a sad note in the commencement exercises at Pennsylvania State College yesterday. On account of the part the students of this institution are taking in the preparation of the war the exercises of the week were very much abbreviated and the joyous spirit which usually marks this occasion was noticeably lacking.

Of the 2,500 students enrolled over 1,000 have already taken up some form of patriotic service. The graduating class of 338 members has furnished 142, or more than one-third, as its quota. At the commencement exercises the vacant seats in the hall, the section of the auditorium where mute testimony of the patriotic fervor which has been manifested by the student body. The band of 80 pieces was reduced to 32 and other classes and organizations showed a similar diminution in membership. The college is now represented in the army, navy, marine corps, officers' training camps, hospital service and in the intensive campaign for increased food production by both students and members of the faculty who have volunteered for service. Now that the work of the college year has been completed it is expected that still more of the students will volunteer in preference to being drafted.

Graduates from this section upon whom degrees were conferred yesterday were: Miss Mary L. Gans, Connelville and Miss Hazel L. Byers, Tarr, bachelor of science and home economics, and H. V. Connell, Uniontown, bachelor of arts in history and political science.

J. S. Godfrey of Cape May, N. J., who has been employed in the West Penn power station at Greene Junction for some time past, was present to receive his degree as bachelor of science in mechanical engineering. He left the college yesterday to enlist in the aviation corps of the army.

The request made of the army officers at the different camps at which the volunteer students are in training to give them leave of absence to attend the graduation exercises, was refused for the reason that "the urgency of the hour demands that not one day's training be missed."

Forty Years' Success.

For a business to be successful for forty years means a great deal. Among other things, it means remarkable excellence in the products it sells. No inferior article can be sold on a large scale for so many years; and it must not only be good at the outset, but so good that the progress of forty years shall not develop any better article to supersede it.

So women can, with confidence, depend upon that old, tried and tested remedy for women's ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, still as popular as ever, though it was placed on the market before the centennial year, 1876—Adv.

Physician Believes a Genuine Remedy for the Disease Has Been Found.

Rheuma, the wonderful rheumatism remedy sold by A. A. Clarke and all druggists, gives quicker and more lasting relief than other remedies costing many times as much.

Rheuma passes the deadly poisonous secretions into the bowels and kidneys, from which they are quickly thrown off in a natural, healthy way. Read what a reputable physician says about Rheuma: "I have made a most careful investigation of the formula employed in the manufacture of Rheuma, and I heartily recommend it as a remedy for all forms of rheumatism. I find Rheuma far in advance of the methods generally employed in the treatment of rheumatism, and altogether different in composition from the remedies usually prescribed."

THE ONLY WAY OUT.

The fact that we are far removed from the scenes of actual conflict which are making the present the most stubbornly contested war of history, is no doubt one reason why the people of America are slow to come to a realization of the necessities which are upon us as one of the participants in the struggle. The people of England, France, Italy, and other allied countries know that they are at war and have learned to realize that unless they back up their governments to the limits of their resources, the war will not be won and as an alternative they will be placed under perpetual tribute in Germany.

The people of America know only in a vague sort of a way that we have begun to play our part, but they have not yet come to fully know that the interest and concern of our country in this struggle is as vital as that of England, France or Italy. "How it came that we are in war or why, are matters of no concern now," says the Pittsburgh Courier Times. "Only the fact that the United States is at war should be considered at this time."

"Being in the war, we can get out through one of only two gates. We can win the war, thus insuring our safety and welfare in the future; or, we shall be defeated and suffer the humiliation and injury of such conditions as a consequence of our defeat. We cannot withdraw and go about our business as if nothing had happened. We can only fight to victory or yield."

"These are the plain facts which America must face. Discussion of anything else only continues the issue. If one inclines to the view that war might have been honorably avoided by our country; if one doubts the worthiness of the cause for which we have taken up arms; if one discons from the government's policies as adopted at Washington; if one's faith in diplomacy, arbitration, moral suasion or what not, rather than force as the means to righteous settlement of international disputes, persists in face of the existing situation—no matter what one's mental attitude may be—the incontestable fact remains that we are at war."

"The only way out is to fight it out—to win. The only way to win, to bring the war to a quick and just conclusion, is to battle with all our national might. There can be no criticism on the sidelines to slow up the active participants in the great work the country has undertaken. There can be no sidelines. Everyone must do his part, either by fighting, working in support of the fighters or by helping to pay the bills."

"We are in the war. All of us must help to get us out honorably by victory on the battlefield. If you can do nothing else, buy Liberty Bonds. That will go a long way toward saving American lives. A good fight, a victorious war, is the only means to peace now."

"We have profited by many mistakes England and France made at the beginning of the war. These mistakes were in both military and industrial preparation, but not in financial preparation. The people of these countries from the very beginning of the war loosened their purse strings and have largely over-subscribed each succeeding loan. We have dollars to the pennies of many Europeans. In the same proportion we ought also to have hundreds to the tens of European bond buyers."

THINK AND INVESTIGATE.

"About the remarks made in this column some days ago, urging caution in giving credence to unsupported rumors, and still greater caution in giving them circulation, comment upon the same subject by the New York Times has apt application."

"No wonder," says the Times, "the air is filled with false rumors. All our military and naval preparations are shrouded in mystery. The newspapers print comparatively few facts about the movements of naval vessels and the assignments of officers. We are in a state of war, and caution is necessary, though it seems that sometimes the government is over-cautious. Suppression of facts, however, always stimulates the invention of fiction."

"Many estimable persons have been worried lately by false tales of naval battles involving the destruction of American ships. Secretary Daniels has officially denied those tales, but they persist. Letters have been received in this office asking verification or denial of reports that one of our crack military airplanes has been wiped out of existence, that a United States battleship has been sunk, that several of our dreadnoughts have been lost."

"The fact is given reference to in this column is a common one. It is the fact that the government is slow to give out information. It is the fact that the government is slow to give out information."

Tomato Cures

To keep a constant supply of tomatoes from the garden case must be taken to keep the plants free from disease and insects, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission in Washington which is collaborating with The Courier in a food garden campaign and a campaign against waste.

The one incurable disease which attacks the tomato, is the wilt. This malady is just what the names implies, and as soon as the gardener recognizes it by the drooping of the leaves, he should immediately pull up and burn all of the infected plants.

Leaf spot (or blight) and anthracnose and fruit rot are both fungous diseases and can be successfully combated with the Bordeaux spraying mixture. The blight is easily discovered when the leaves become spotted, turn yellow and drop. The stems afterward dry up and the fruit drops. As soon as blight is detected the plants may be saved if the Bordeaux is sprayed on every three weeks. The spraying of well plants with Bordeaux will prevent any attack of blight.

Anthracnose and fruit rot are also fought with the Bordeaux spray. The most destructive of tomato parasites is the cut worm, a dark worm which chews off the young plants at the top of the ground. Tanned paper wrapped around the stalks will protect young plants just set out. Should the worms be discovered on larger plants poison bark will kill them off. Tomatoes set out on freshly plowed soil are most likely to be attacked by cut worms.

The picturesque tomato worm—the long, green, naked caterpillar—is found on the leaves. This is probably a disease-causing agent and should be hand picked and killed. Flea beetles which chew tomato leaves can be exterminated with the arsenate of lead spray and can also pick or lay them off the leaves into a vessel containing water with a little kerosene.

BALDNESS.

Baldness is a relentless and cold-blooded malady which strips the human head of its tresses and leaves it in a state of glacial desolation. It is one of the most determined ailments in all materia medica, and when once firmly seated is harder to shake off than the one-piece bathing suit.

Science has long studied the cause and cure of baldness, but has not succeeded in locating either. We pay out a great deal of money in this country every year to keep science from dying a natural death and what do we get for it? Some of the best and longest-winded scientists on the pay roll carry with them their daily task of a translucent dome which is entirely devoid of everything except thought and glistening beads of perspiration. And yet all that science has to offer to the victim of this merciless epidemic is a vacant look and some new dandruff remover.

Baldness seldom attacks any but men of bulging intellect. John Quincy Adams, president of the United States, was so bald that he could wear himself in a dark room by moonlight and his massive bump-bump-rinkled dome would easily generate a 300-watt glow on a bright sunny day. All over this fair, strictly neutral land of ours so rich in history and immolation factories, are to be found smart, brainy men with shining cupolas from whence all but reason had fled. In the search for intellectual companionship, baldness seems to settle upon newspaper men with great violence, which probably accounts for the large number of doctors, ministers and lawyers who have more hair than an Angora goat.

Although the bald-headed man has much to sadden and depress him, he is never downhearted except in fly time when he circumstances. The domestic house fly with a small cup. Baldness is not the result of disintegration but is caused by thinking upon deep subjects which other people are wearing bells. Some forms of baldness have a nefarious accompaniment in the person of the dandy but worn during business hours which has the same degree of ventilation as a collar-venting risk.

Baldness never attacks the female sex, except in some cases where it is immediately polished with a switch four shades removed from the color of the original hair. This is one of the two benefits of being a woman. The other is housework.

ON THE FARM.

The farmer gladly tells all day, producing things we need and sell. He'll tell us through his hay, and sell his nutmeg seed. The farmer's horse are fine as silk and they're acquiring land, his cows are all producing milk, his pigs are all producing pork. The farmer's hens are laying shells with golden yolks inside the farmer's store are wearing bells each with its golden hide. The farmer's ducks are quacking for products of the earth, he doesn't think he charges us too low as much as they are worth. If we could to the farmer go, for things he has to sell, we wouldn't crumple in our woe, beneath the farmer's high prices when he can, he earns his gold in toll and sweat he is an honest man. But twice the farmer and the push, the speculator stands, a robber teaching for the cash with both his greedy hands. And though the land with plenty teems, there's famine all around, by speculators and their schemes our weary souls are ground.

HOOPER & LONG'S

Keeping the gums healthy and the mouth sweet is very important to health; more teeth are lost through the loosening of the tissue that holds the teeth in place than from decay.

Dental science to-day demands that a tooth paste must keep the gums healthy as well as clean the teeth.

Senreco was formulated to meet this requirement. Hundreds of dentists are prescribing and using Senreco because they have found that it does measure up to that standard.

SENRECO IS A WONDERFUL CLEANSER.

In addition to its remedial properties Senreco is a wonderful cleanser; acts directly on the mucin film, the basis of tartar; leaves the mouth cool and clean-feeling. As some one has expressed it—Senreco gives one a new idea on mouth cleanliness.

Get a tube to-day at your druggists or toilet counter—enjoy the healthy, cleanly feeling it gives your mouth and gums. Notice how brilliantly white Senreco makes your teeth. It performs this two-fold service for you and yet costs no more than the ordinary, old-fashioned tooth paste that simply cleans the teeth and leaves a pleasant taste—25 cents for a large 2 ounce tube.

CHAIN GANG PLAN TO BE TRIED OUT IN MT. PLEASANT

Council Decides to Put Habitual Offenders to Work on the Streets.

PUT BAN ON FIREWORKS

Some Will Be Permitted Within the Town Limits on July 11 Patriotic League Given Permission to Put Frick Park in Shape for Meetings.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, June 12.—At a continued meeting of council last night members of the police force, the burgess, high constable, health officer and street commissioner were put "on the carpet" as part of council's investigation of certain conditions that are objectionable. The investigation, however, was much more moderate than had been expected. The outcome was that the councilman committees and the officials directly under their supervision decided upon a co-operative plan which is expected to bring good results. The street commissioner will be directly responsible to the street committee, the police will report to the police committee and so on.

One good step was taken in council's decision to rid the town of back-door begging and drive out the habitual drunkards. These offenders will be arrested and properly put in a chain gang to work on the streets or else given five days on a bread and water diet.

The Patriotic League was given permission to put Frick Park in shape for public meetings in the future.

Ban on Fireworks.

Council last night decided that fireworks would be prohibited within the city limits on July 4.

ROLL CALL OF 1917

Come, answer to the roll call!
The drums are sounding clear.
Come, turn your name into the scroll
Of this immortal year.
Come, Freedom's sons and daughters!
The world is torn with strife.
Come, follow in the footsteps of
The men who made the world safe
For you and me.

Serve in the field or factory,
Serve with the deadly guns.
Or serve upon the perilous seas,
Above the lurking U-boats.
Serve by the strong and willing arm
Or by the ringing word.
So only that your name be gone,
Your name be heard.

We gather at the crossroads,
The parting of the ways.
Who now fulfill his little hour
Works for eternal days?
Then rally to the mighty roll.
Who drums are sounding clear,
So when the call shall reach your name,
Your soul shall answer "Here!"

LIBERTY BONDS COMPARED WITH INSURANCE POLICY

In One Case the Purchaser Pays the Premium, In the Other the Government.

By CHARLES BUXTON GOING
of the Vigilantes.

A liberty bond is actually an insurance policy, issued by the United States, which guarantees return of the full face value. But instead of asking you to pay any premium the United States pays premiums to you.

What does your bond insure?
Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Is anything more vitally important?
What protection would you and in a policy on your house, your goods, your health, your old age, if our country should suffer the fate of Belgium, of Serbia, of Poland, of Roumania, of northern France? What would the underwriters have left with which to repay your individual loss, or what would be left of you to profit by the payment?

Make no mistake. The peril is real, vivid—swift to leap upon us unless our defense is ready. True, we have power in abundance—men, talents, resources. But they cannot be mobilized for our protection until we have first mobilized our money. That is what the liberty bonds will do.

One of the world's greatest statesmen when he was asked to name the first requisite for successful war replied with emphasis, "Money!"

"And the second requisite?"
"Money!"
"And the third?"
"Money!"

Every one of us can prove himself a statesman in decision and action by lending to our country some portion of this paramount requisite. If we have not the ready cash on hand, we can save the contribution week by week and do our bit just as effectively. Any bank will gladly explain how and handle all the business details without charge.

And finally the promise held out by these liberty bonds is far happier than that of any insurance policy which merely undertakes to reimburse you if you lose. The liberty bonds are a guarantee that we shall not lose. You win with your country and collect your policy too.

Insure the United States and the United States will insure you.
Buy a liberty bond!

CHATEAU FOR PERSHING.

Count de Maupassant Offers Huge Castle For American.

The Count de Maupassant of the family of the author Guy de Maupassant offers his huge and magnificent chateau at Lezeville, near St. Nazaire, at the mouth of the Loire, as headquarters for the general commanding any American forces disembarking in the vicinity.

The ample grounds around the chateau afford room for the tents of an army and all conveniences for the soldiers. The chateau contains 200 rooms and has numerous stables and out-buildings.

The count says that General Pershing's headquarters will probably be near Paris or the front, but that his chateau is suitable for the general actually commanding the disembarking troops. His fervent love for the United States, he says, prompts the offer.

SLACKERS ADOPT BABIES.

Kansas City Cowards Have New Scheme to Evade Draft.

Slackers have discovered a method to get out of the draft. At least four young married couples of Kansas City have adopted babies within the last month. Two foster mothers have boasted that now their husbands will not have to go to the front.

When congress declared war there was a rush to the marriage license bureau. This was checked by the war department's announcement that those who wed now would be drafted just the same. Filled in this effort, the cowards are now turning their attention toward the orphan asylum.

The manager of one of the homes for foundlings said that there had been a marked increase in the number of requests for children to adopt in the last month.

POSTURE OF WOMEN.

Upon It In Great Measure Depends Good or Bad Health.

Miss Jessie B. Merrick, director of physical education for women in the University of Washington, insists that every woman's home or office be a laboratory of health. She points out that there was a time when women's household duties were so varied that all her muscles were brought into play. Work has become so highly specialized, however, and woman has taken her place so actively in the business world with men that she is deprived of the opportunity to live a rational life in which she would exercise every part of the body in accordance with its natural functions.

Good posture is to be thought about. It depends upon the maintenance of natural conditions of life. Some health specialists attribute all abnormalities of health to bad posture. Depressed mental condition, ill fitting clothing and poorly adapted furniture all contribute to a slovenly sitting or standing posture.

Bad posture is blamed for such diseases as sciatica and lumbago.

Good, posture requires initiative, courage, responsibility, self control and self direction.

A strong nervous system is to be gained by physical activity in games, dances and exercises involving rhythm.

HE INVENTS WORDS.

This Man Finds Terms to Fit Emergencies For the Dictionaries.

There are in the world many unusual and unique occupations, but perhaps the strangest of all which pays a good income is that of a New York newspaper man who earns, in addition to his regular salary from the paper, rather regular amounts from the publishers of dictionaries, encyclopedias and other such volumes. His occupation is the inventing of new words.

The casual observer would be inclined to remark that the English language already possesses enough words for all uses without the invention of any new ones, and probably his statement would be fact. Nevertheless it is true that this man is paid substantial sums for inventing new words to fit special phases, situations, occupations and occurrences, and that the publishers of dictionaries will incorporate into them any new word based on substantial derivatives for the existence of which a plausible reason can be made.

The progress of modern business, and especially the discoveries that have been made in the fields of electricity and medicine in the last decade have been responsible for the incorporation into the language of many new words.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat

BRICK INDUSTRY OF WEST. PENNA. IS FLOURISHING

Heaviest Demand for Output Known for Many Years in the Trade.

FIRE BRICK VERY ACTIVE

Furnaces Requiring vast quantities for Re-lining Purposes; Prices Are High and Demand is Increasing at a Rapid Rate; Building Brick Dull.

One of the great industries of Western Pennsylvania is brick-making.
There are over 100 companies in the western counties of the state engaged in the manufacture of building brick, firebrick and other clay products, such as fireproofing materials. According to estimates made from the industrial directory of Pennsylvania, 25,000 men are employed by these various companies, which means that they support over 100,000 persons.

Clay is one of the natural resources of wealth of the western end of the state and has for a century furnished employment and created fortunes for many hundreds of families.

The allied branches of the brick industry have not been so busy for many years. The great demand for firebrick for refining furnaces and for other similar work has caused a boom which has brought great prosperity to many people. Prices for the products of the firebrick works are high and the demand increasing. The present shortage of transportation facilities is the only drawback to this industry.

In the building brick end conditions have not been so good, on account of the lull in building enterprises due to high prices of all building materials.
Men experienced in the brick business say that in the future the brick industry will be running full speed up, but that finally the demand for houses and other buildings becomes so great that business is taken on, even at high prices for materials. Manufacturers of building brick are encouraged by the growing demand for their product in Europe. Italy especially is said to be in the market for much brick for defense in the mountainous country where trench warfare is impossible. The inevitable result of this must be a brisk demand for building brick, and Western Pennsylvania will feel the effects of this demand among the first.

The reconstruction of northern France, reconquered from the Germans, is also looked to as a source of contracts and it would seem inevitable that the brick industry in the Pittsburgh district will be running full speed in a short time, which means that millions of dollars will be expended in wages and large amounts paid out in dividends.

There are communities in Western Pennsylvania devoted almost exclusively to brick-making, and these will shortly enjoy a measure of prosperity which they have not known for years.

efforts are being made to secure Pickles

PICKED OUT MCGRAW FOR A SUBSTITUTE

IF ball players heard some of the things said about them by spectators in the stands they would be far from complimented.
For instance, the other afternoon while the Giants were taking holding practice McGraw was busily engaged in batting ground-ers to his holdouts. In a box behind the press box sat a boy and a man, probably the lad's father. The boy had a multitude of questions to ask while he eagarly watched the practice, but finally said to the man:
"Who's that at the plate batting the ball around? Do you know him?"
To which the man replied rather
or contemptuously:
"Oh, he's only a substitute!"

covered Famous Slugger.

Frank Baker, third baseman of the New York Yankees and one of the commanding figures of the diamond, because a ball player because he thought it was the best way he could make money.

Frank Baker wasn't born with a golden spoon in his mouth. When a youngster in Trappe, Md., where he was born on March 13, 1893, he ran errands for the town butcher. He was a powerfully built, big boned lad and every inch an athlete. After a short time in the service of the meat dealer
J. Franklin decided he'd do much better if he took up baseball, so he got a job with a semiprofessional club at Ridgely, Md., which was managed by Charles Herzog, at present captain and second baseman of the New York Giants.

It was really Charley Herzog who discovered the far famed slugger of Trappe. His discerning eye saw in the powerful arms of the youngster the usual driving force, so he set about to touch to the lad the rudiments of the game. Baker gives Herzog full credit for developing him in those days.

THE CALL OF THE RED CROSS

HOW THE GREAT WAR MEDICAL AND NURSING SERVICE OFFERS ALL AMERICANS OPPORTUNITY TO DO THEIR BIT

The Red Cross has suddenly assumed a tremendous importance for Americans. The earnest appeal of President Wilson to the generosity of the American people to provide funds and other support for the organization, the appointment of such a man as Henry P. Davison, of J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, as head of the Red Cross War Council, the announcement that Mr. Davison would devote all his time to what will probably be the greatest money-raising campaign for a benevolent purpose the world ever saw, are facts making the country realize that the Red Cross stands next to the Army and Navy themselves in importance to the people.

Why should I, already war-taxed and taking my share of the Liberty bonds, give voluntarily to the Red Cross, individuals are asking themselves. Why is President Wilson so concerned about the matter of support for the Red Cross? Why will such men as Davison sacrifice private business to make the Red Cross financial campaign a success? This article is written to be the answer to these questions.

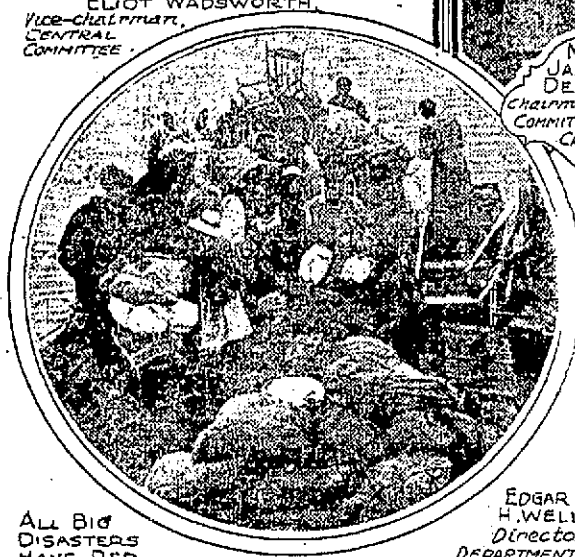

Facing a great war, for the first time in our history we are prepared to send with our armies a completely organized and well equipped service to look after the bodily welfare of our soldiers. We are not only well prepared in this respect, but we are better prepared than any other nation ever has been at the outset of war. And the organization which has brought this about has not offered the invaluable services as kindly charity, as it was in Spanish War days, but it goes under presidential order and the laws of the nation as an integral part of our fighting forces.

Consequently all America is endeavoring to know more about it and its work. Although its existence is one of the best known of all designs, there is widespread ignorance concerning the society itself. This is not astonishing, for, old as the custom is, the society in its present status is a veritable infant. It was authorized by Congress and accepted as part of our war structure by presidential proclamation just five years ago.

Five years ago the entire force of Red Cross activities and employees occupied a single room in the War Department. Today the organization occupies a large, new building of its own, a veritable poem in snowy marble and bronze, a structure costing over $800,000, and occupies it to overflowing. Five years ago its membership was confined to the philanthropic few who kept it alive with their annual contributions. Today the roll is working upward toward the half million mark, as more and more Americans learn about the purposes of the association, while the applications for membership in a single day amount to more than the total membership six years ago.

What is the Red Cross?
What does it do?
Who does its work?
Can I help?

These are the questions asked most often in the marble building across from the White House. The Red Cross tries to keep up with these floods of queries by distributing its literature and by answering letters, but it is falling behind in the task. The whole nation seems to be asking these questions. And apparently as fast as individuals learn what the Red Cross stands for and how they can help it along as individuals they add their names to the mounting membership roll and stand ready as volunteers to assist in the work.

No doubt two-thirds of the population of the United States either never knew that the Red Cross as an ideal came into existence since our Civil War or they have forgotten that it is so youthful. It never occurs to the modern man to wonder who takes care of the victims of wars and disasters. The modern man usually does not have to bother about such things, anyhow. When a fire breaks out the apparatus quickly arrives, and when there is a riot the police are on hand; and when we have trouble with a foreign country the army and navy are in evidence. These things seem to provide themselves miraculously—the modern man takes them for granted, like the mail delivery and the newspaper.

And yet when a great disaster comes, or thousands are killed and wounded in battle, some expert, organized force has to take care of the victims, if they are to be taken care of at all, and until the Red Cross was organized—less than sixty years ago—there was no such organized force. Even in our own Civil War the nursing of wounded men was done in a haphazard way by volunteer women. The nation is proud of these women—it has dedicated the beautiful new Red Cross building in Washington to their memory—but at the same time we must admit that the Civil War nursing was not what it might have been. Some of the nurses had more pity than trained ability, and as a result men died or remained helpless cripples throughout their lives when proper treatment—the sort of treatment an injured man receives in a modern hospital—might have saved them.

The battle of Solferino occurred in 1859. It went on for several days. In that time 30,000 wounded men lay on the field—Frenchmen, Italians and Russians. Thousands of these remained for days in extreme agony, uncared for. Thousands of them died for want of care. It was one of the supreme horrors of all history.

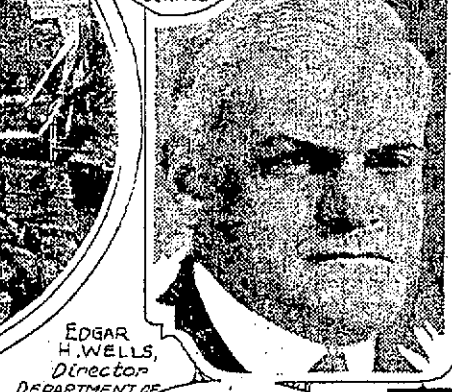

It happened that a Swiss—Henri Dunant—went upon this battlefield and saw these dying, neglected men. He told about it so vividly that the nations of the world decided that it was time to take this atrocity out of war. The Treaty of Geneva in 1864 for the first time provided for the immunity of medical and nursing services in battle, and the sign of that immunity was to be a red cross. And from that authorization has sprung the great international order of mercy—the Red Cross.

The United States did not adopt the Geneva Treaty until 1882. From then until the year 1900 the Red Cross was a struggling organization—largely a private charity—without official recognition or national standing. It first impressed itself upon the notice of the country by its relief work at the Johnstown flood in 1888. When the Spanish War broke out it was still outside the Government and not organized or prepared along military lines. In 1904 Miss Mabel T. Boardman became the head of it. Her indefatigable work caused Congress in 1905 to give the organization a federal charter and designate it as the official relief organization of the United States of America. It is the only organization permitted to give volunteer aid to the victims of war. Other institutions seeking to be of humanitarian service, in time of war must act through the Red Cross.

The organization is two-fold in several particulars, and therefore not quickly understood by the public. It is both official and private in its character. That is, the Government has adopted it officially as the auxiliary war relief service. The President of the United States by law is also president of the Red Cross. The controller of the currency is its treasurer. Its accounts are audited by the War Department, and its annual reports are addressed to Congress.

Yet the Government does not finance the Red Cross. On occasions Congress has voted contributions of money to it. Congress helped to build the new building, for instance. But the great volume of its funds spent for relief work is contributed by private individuals. In times past most of its cash has come in the form of gifts, less than 90 per cent of its receipts being from membership fees. But with the quickened interest in the Red Cross the membership fees are becoming an important source of revenue.

In time of war the Red Cross acts as the auxiliary to the medical and nursing services—the sanitary services, as they are called, of Army and Navy. It is a case of the auxiliary being greater than the thing aided. Many doubtless wonder why the Army and Navy does not maintain its own hospital service on an adequate scale. The answer is that it has been found to be more efficient and less costly to give this task over to the semi-private Red Cross. If there were no Red Cross doubtless the military services would have had their enlisted reserves of surgeons and nurses, and their storerooms of hospital supplies. But it would have been a costly thing to do, and the chances are that its service would have been no better prepared for war than many of the other departments of the Army and Navy.

But the Red Cross is ready. Its enlisted nurses number 7,000. These are sufficient in number to care for the victims of a fighting army of 1,400,000 men. War experience is that five per cent of a fighting army are in the hospitals. That is, of 1,400,000 men at the trenches, 70,000 will be sick or wounded. One competent nurse can care for ten wounded men.

In this work the Red Cross is merely the auxiliary. Both Army and Navy have their medical and nurse corps. But these are maintained only at such size as to meet the requirements of peace. When war comes the Red Cross furnishes the additional surgeons and nurses required for the enlarged Army and Navy. When serving together a Red Cross nurse is subordinate in rank to the regular service nurse, and the Red Cross surgeon does not rank equally with the Army and Navy surgeon, although all are subject to the same discipline and rules.

Now the service within the Red Cross is also two-fold. Some timorous individuals seem to fear that in volunteering to help in the Red Cross work they are enlisting for definite terms and may be dispatched to any point selected by their superior officers. But this is far from being the case. The stories we will read after the war of beautiful young girls who bravely joined the Red Cross and did heroic nursing service in the base hospitals will be purely fiction. The Red Cross will not let any woman serve at the front as a nurse even if she demands the privilege, unless she is a graduate nurse of some recognized institution. The nursing service is already recruited up to its limit, and it will be a long time before all of its enrolled nurses see war hospital service.

But a limited number of men and women volunteers who desire to experience Red Cross service with the Army will be given the chance. A few ambulance drivers and men who can do special executive work will be needed with the units sent abroad. And the hospitals also have work for non-professional women—superintending the housework at the hospital and serving as matrons of the nurses' dormitories, and so on. These women are to be called nurses' aids. It is estimated that there will be as many of them as there are nurses, so that if 7,000 nurses are all sent across the ocean, that many nurses' aids will accompany them.

The service which the Red Cross asks of the millions of American women anxious to help will be purely a voluntary, unbossed, home service. For the most part it will be needlework, the preparation of supplies. These supplies include surgical dressings, which cannot be made for the Red Cross unless the seamstress has had special instruction in the work, and other articles such as bed linen, pajamas, bathrobes, and other comforts which sick men in hospitals need. Most of these latter can be made by any intelligent woman without special attention. All such articles must comply with standard specifications, but these specifications and plain directions are furnished by the Red Cross. The materials are bought by the volunteer.

To train lay women for the various tasks which must be done in great numbers if the nursing service is to have the home support which will make it a success, the Red Cross in many cities conducts special courses of instruction. Classes for this instruction can be organized by any ten women together, and except in extraordinary instances the expert teachers will be furnished. The Red Cross now has a tremendous call upon it for these teachers, and in some cases it is impossible to supply them.

There are three of these courses, named respectively—Elementary, Hygiene, and Home

Care of the Sick, Home Dietetics, and Preparation of Surgical Dressings. It will be seen that the first two courses are designed to make every student more efficient in her own home as well as to prepare her for possible voluntary service with the Red Cross. The instructors in the first two courses are trained nurses or other experts approved by the national organization. For the third course, that in the preparation of surgical dressings, lay teachers, approved by the Red Cross, are supplied. These teachers are usually graduates of the classes who have proven themselves proficient.

From the women bearing certificates of proficiency in the first two courses the nurses' aids, who will see real war service, are being selected, but always from those eager for the service. There is no compulsion upon anyone who has taken the courses to volunteer for active hospital work, nor even any obligation upon them to do so. Nevertheless, the Red Cross is not embarrassed for want of volunteers for such work. The problem is rather one of selection among those clamoring to enlist.

The surgical dressings course will have to be repeated to many thousands of American women if the war proves to be serious for our Army. It is probable that before many months there will be in almost every city and town of the United States women with certificates of competency to teach classes in the preparation of bandages. The work is spreading out like an endless chain of letters. From each class a few are given authority to teach others, and the expert knowledge spreads quickly.

Just now the service of the Red Cross in war is engaging the public's attention, but it should not be forgotten that if the Red Cross never went to war it would still justify its existence and its official status by the good works which it renders in time of peace. It has an emergency service ever ready to speed like a fire department to the scene of disaster. This work is carried on entirely by the professional, paid enlistment of the Red Cross.

The organization carries on a wide first-aid campaign, instructing men in mines, ships, quarries, and on the railroads, how to save their own and their fellow-employees' lives. It maintains volunteer lifesaving corps of swimmers along the rivers and coasts to save lives from drowning.

Last but not by any means least it has inaugurated the promising work of rural visiting nursing. In this it is extending to the poor and ignorant in the country districts the care which people in the congested quarters of our cities receive from the visiting nurse associations. The health statistics show that the rural districts need such a service more than do the cities. At present this service is still in its infancy, but it seems safe to predict that the day will come when it will be one of the most effective social service movements ever undertaken in the United States.

The Red Cross came into existence through the desire of nations to soften the hardships and suffering of war. It was an act of mercy, of humanity. But now, thanks to the development of modern surgery and nursing, while retaining all its meritorious qualities the Red Cross has become an important factor in the defense of a nation, in the nation's ability to endure.

In our own Civil War, when a man was wounded that usually ended his service with the army. It was just as effective for the enemy to wound a man as to kill him. But the Red Cross and the sanitary forces of modern armies have ended that condition. Germany has been returning as many as 80 per cent of her wounded to the trenches, and the Allies have been doing nearly as well. In large part the expert surgical and nursing care of the wounded explains the ability of modern armies to keep up their strength of numbers in spite of the heavy casualties.

American nursing has no equal anywhere else on earth, and American surgery is not surpassed. Thus the American Red Cross becomes doubly important from the strategic point of view, from the selfish point of view of winning the war. If our troops engage the enemy in Europe to any large extent, it would not be surprising to learn that a higher percentage of wounded Americans are restored to fighting condition than was ever known before in war, thanks to the Red Cross at the front supported by a devoted population at home.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Sleepy Time Story About a Most Vain and Silly Beast.

HAD VERY BIG NOTIONS.

Although His Home Was in the Barnyard, He Imagined That Place Was Too Humble For His Talents—Goes on a Journey and is Punished.

Well, said Uncle Tom to Little Ned, tonight I am going to tell you about

THE ARTFUL DONKEY.

Once upon a time there lived in a field near a blue jungle where many lions made their home a little gray donkey.

Now, this donkey was not satisfied with being just a donkey and drawing his master's little cart of vegetables to market and enjoying a comfortable home and nice meals.

Neddy wanted to be a lion, and he tried to imitate the air and walk of a lion he had once seen. He fancied that his bray sounded like a lion's roar. All the farmyard animals laughed at him which made him very cross.

One day a hunter who had shot a lion stopped at his master's house with the lion skin. While the stranger was at dinner Neddy stole out to where the lion lay and slipped into it. Then he ran off toward the forest, frightening foolish hens and geese and amusing the more sensible animals.

When he reached the edge of the forest he met the old black sheep who had his master's socks.

"O-r-r-r-r!" brayed the donkey. The sheep looked.

Near the woods he met Mr. Fox. "Why, it's that stupid old donkey that brays whenever I come about the farmhouse at night. What he is doing running around in the skin of old Leo!" Mr. Fox said to himself.

Leo was the old lion which had been shot by the hunter. His relatives in the forest were very angry about his death.

"G-r-r-r-r!" brayed the donkey. "Ah, good evening, Mr. Leo!" the fox said slyly.

The donkey was greatly pleased. "Glad to meet you, sir," replied the donkey.

"There are some of your relations over there looking for you," the fox went on, thinking that the donkey would turn and run home.

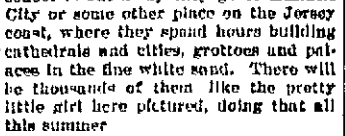

But the foolish donkey was so sure that the lions would gladly welcome him and never suspect that he was not one of themselves that he went trotting off toward a brook where some of the animals were drinking.

"There he comes, the monster, dressed in my poor, dear husband's skin!" roared Mrs. Leo, and she made a leap that landed her on the donkey's back.

That was all. The next day the farmer, who went out to hunt for Neddy, found the lion's skin behind the donkey's skin in the woods.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR

No Need to Look Old! Natural Color Comes With the Use of Q-Ban, the Great Scientific Discovery!

Not a Day.

There is no longer any need for sensible people to let gray hairs spoil their looks or make them appear older than they really are in fact. Now that great chemists have succeeded in discovering a way to bring back a natural color to gray and faded hair in a perfectly healthful and pleasant way—without dyes and without likelihood of injury—thousands have banished their gray hairs for good.

This was made possible by the use of Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer, a harmless and efficient liquid, all ready to use from the bottle.

Q-Ban is guaranteed by the makers to give satisfaction or your money back. Not a part of medicine, not a dye. Only sold at Laughey Drug Co. and all good drug stores, or write to George E. HOW THIN PEOPLE MAY PUT ON FLESH

Great Discovery by Eminent Specialist.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing the arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness, and it therefore is a real pleasure to publish herewith a simple prescription which, by correcting faulty metabolism and stimulating the activities of certain sluggish vital organs quickly produces a marvelous transformation in the appearance, the increase in weight frequently being astonishing. This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health, nervousness, sleeplessness, and lack of energy which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, all quickly disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

The prescription, which is absolutely harmless, directs you to take before each meal a 5-grain tablet of Bilio-Phosphate such as you may obtain from any druggist at a trifling cost. But all you want, but chew your food thoroughly.

Caution—Although the above prescription is unexcelled for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not be given to its remarkable flesh-growing properties be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh—Adv.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE VALENTINE GIRL"—A Famous Players Paramount picture, starring Marguerite Clark the idol of the screen, is a wonderfully interesting attraction today. The production is a delightful opportunity to present to Miss Clark's screen admirers one of those old-fashioned characters which have made her so popular. Maria Morgan is a tiny tad of a girl whose mother died when she was born and whose father, in the bitterness of the moment has banished her forever from his sight. She has always been brought up by an aunt, who has succeeded in always holding before her the vision of an ideal father whom it would some day be her privilege to meet. The dreams of this little girl are constantly filled with thoughts of this great man who in her imagination has pictured of an almost infinite wisdom. Miss Clark's winsome personality lends itself particularly well to child impersonation and yet as a grown up lady, she has certain charm of manner seldom ever equalled on the screen. In this picture she combines the two in her own inimitable fashion and has produced a character that will greatly endear itself to the heart. She is supported by Frank Lane, Richard Barthelmess, Katherine Adams, and others. Thursday, Roscoe Arbuckle supported by Al St. John and others will be seen in "The Reckless Romeo," the second of the comedy two-reelers which have been made under the big comedies' own standard.

"MARY LAWSON'S SECRET"—A five reel Gold Rooster drama featuring the prize-winning actress Charlotte Walker. An excellent comedy with Harry Myers, will also be shown tomorrow, "The Blue Streak"—A Fox Feature Film is the first film made for William Fox by William Nigh. Mr. Nigh and Violet Palmer, a newly discovered film artists, are starred in the production.
